

Write narratives in which they recount two or more appropriately sequenced events, include some details regarding what happened, use temporal words to signal event order, and provide some sense of closure.

Narrative Writing Activities

Write About Your Weekend

Have students write about what they did over the weekend. The narrative should include at least two events and should be written in the order in which they happened. Explain what temporal words are (for example: first, next, and last) and how to use them in the narrative.

Write About Your Last Vacation

Have students write about what they did during their last vacation. The narrative should include at least two events and should be written in the order in which they happened. Explain what temporal words are (for example: first, next, and last) and how to use them in the narrative.

Write About Your Field Trip

Have students write about what they did during their field trip. The narrative should include at least two events and should be written in the order in which they happened. Explain what temporal words are (for example: first, next, and last) and how to use them in the narrative.
